It Must Be Torture. Dr. Nachtigal, the celebrated African explorer, was the guest of a rich Hamburg merchant. The merchant's son, a young man of a somewhat sentimental temperament, said among other things that his degrest wish was to ride across the desert on the back of a camel. He thought such a ride must be very poetical indeed.

"My dear young friend," replied the explorer, "I can tell you how you can get a partial idea of what riding a camel on the deserts of Africa is like. Take an office stool, screw it up as high as possible and put it in a wagon without any springs. Then seat yourself on the stool and have it driven over rocky and uneven ground during the hottest weather of July or August and after

His Criticism.

When the first edition of the "Seasons" came out, the poet sent a handsomely bound copy to Sir Gilbert Elliott of Minto, who had shown him kindness Sir Gilbert took the book to his gardener, a relative of Thomson, who turned it over and over in his hands, gazing at it in admiration. Sir Gilbert

"Well, David, what do you think of James Thomson now? There's a book that will make him famous the world over and immortalize his name.

"In truth," said David, "it is a grand book. I did no think the lad had ingenuity enow to ha' done sich a neat plece o' handicraft.'

He Saved Red Tape.

The late Senator Morrill of Vermont, was as careful of the public property as if he bought and paid for it out of his private purse. He always carefully untied and saved the piece of red tape that came around his mail, in consequence of which his room was the only committee room that never made a requisition for tape.

The superiority of Japanese drawing can probably be traced to the custom of that land to make the children practice painting and drawing without the use of any stick or supporting device for the hand. They are taught to draw at the same time they are taught to write the letters of the alphabet, and they are taught to use both hands equally in the task.
